Hey JE - How goes it?...am at JFK...flight takes off in a couple of hours...thanks for mentioning me to Templeton...I have some ideas for experimental paradigms, one examining prayer vs non-prayer recitations that look for harmonies in the brain (autocorrelations and cross-correlations of spike train periodicities) via multielectrode grids implanted brain areas that are far enough apart (10+ cm) that we can address the larger question you asked about cognition (as opposed to how small swaths of brain work "mechanically").
