Brice,

I spoke to one of our reps for extended carrier coverage options and would like to take him out to the ranch to see if he has a good solution. AT&T does deploy what they call Femto Cells in remote areas that are used to make phone calls through the local Internet. The Femto Cells work on the AT&T local frequencies for the cell phones and the unit is connected to the Internet through the Ranch Ethernet. I am checking to see if these are available for use at the ranch.

Thanks,
