Dear Jeffrey:

I am coming to NY and hope to see you. I'm not sure how to arrange things since the old NYC office number is no longer answering.

I'm reachable at [REDACTED] Thursday I'm in a conference all day but can duck out to return a call.

I hope you are well and having fun.

In addition to the fairly low-tech eyeglasses and eyecare project, I'm working with a small new venture to make the first really powerful and tunable terahertz laser. That's the underexplored spectrum between microwave and far infrared. When this gadget works, it'll be like Roentgen et al. discovering the first applications of x-rays. And it's based on some new physics: magnons collide to make terahertz photons....

Best,
David
