Hello Jeffrey,
Leon mentioned that you recommended he put the new Munch into a Delaware LLC to provide more flexibility in the future. This would otherwise be going into Narrow Holdings LLC, a New York LLC. Is the point that it's important that the painting is in an LLC by itself or that it's a Delaware LLC? Not sure at this point that we will proceed with the art partnership but just want to make sure I understand what you meant on this subject-is your thought this artwork should not go into the art partnership even if in a separate LLC?

Also, I know you believe the transfer to the kids will be complete only at the time we turn off the income right but since this is the key issue, I was just wondering if you had a chance to read through the attached 2006 Trust document and whether you had any thoughts re Carlyn's defense that we'd be ok if it was the independent trustees that turned off the income right ie. out of Leon's control?

Still working on the issues you raised in terms the way ownership is titled on various filings- should have a conclusion on this tomorrow.

Thank you!!
Eileen

Jeffrey, thinking back through dialogs with Carlyn & Elyse and looking at some of my old notes from those dialogs that relate to our conversation this morning I offer the following:

Regarding the issue of why turning off the income right now works is that it would be the independent trustees turning off the income right, not Leon, and that the 2006 Trust was drafted purposely in anticipation of this. I believe this relates to the language on page 30 in the attached.

Also, Ada (from US Trust) at one point had suggested to Carlyn that we consider having the trustees turn of the income right in the 2006 Trust and then decant the assets from the 2006

Trust into a new trust before proceeding with the Art Partnership to insure a cleaner transaction.

Also, on the subject of the 2006 Trust and other trust paying their own taxes-important implication for Black Family Partners would be that we no longer have a single taxpayer.

Best,
Eileen
