How concerned should we really be about the possibility of the Singularity occurring?

5 Robert Rapplean, Software engineer, roboticist, philos...

Tremendously, but not for the reasons you might think.

The industrial revolution took about 100 years, and was the point at which many mechanical, repetitive tasks could

How did Mitt Romney manage to make so many gaffes on his trip to London?

103 Adam Mordecai, Progressive Politics Junkie

A little secret about politicians. They have to have egos to survive. When I worked on the Howard Dean campaign in 2004, the good doctor refused media training, because he'... Read More »

How can I overcome envy of people who are my age but are far more successful than I am?

407 Matthew Manning, Middle-Aged Soul

Emphatically stop giving a shit.

1. You have ZERO idea what their personal lives are actually like, or if their outward appearance of success is total bullshit.
2. Stop focusing ...

It's interesting that in your question, you exclude Southwest Airlines. Southwest is actually a favorite case in operations management and, more specifically, the field of ... Read More »

What are some subtle details of the 2012 London opening ceremony that we may not have caught?

93 Thomas Goodwin, Tired by being interested in everything.

It certainly was not subtle to my eyes but to me the whole thing felt like a big two fingers up at the Beijing Olympics opening ceremony- rather than try to compete it almo... Read More »

How do people outside the US view the contest between Romney and Obama?

94 Judith Meyer, I have my views, but I love hearing y...

For Germans, there is simply no choice. Already in the Obama vs. McCain election, or in the Gore vs. Bush election, people thought that the choice was beyond obvious (and w... Read More »

Do the narratives of boyfriends shielding their girlfriends during the shooting enforce harmful stereotypes about masculinity?

137 Lindsey Senway

Any overly gendered narrative obscures the very real instances of individual bravery. Those men didn't necessarily die because they were men, but because they had the coura... Read More »

What are some cultural faux pas when working at a tech startup?

277 Michael Wolfe, On startup #4 and counting.

- Saying "that's not my job." Ever.
- Arguing over who gets the best office.
- Asking to max out your cash comp in lieu of equity.
- Asking to be paid overtime....
