I never recall saying that there would be a 20' road.
You tried to bully me this morning to say that.
The only discussion I recall is that there was to be a road around building. Which there is.
I spoke with Tom and Brice this morning. They do not recall any conversation on a 20' road.
I have documented e-mail from Brice that you were copied on that says pad was to be 80'.
There is no documentation for a 20' road.
You saw the layout before it was poured.

Once again Craig that is because I was told by you that that would leave twenty feet. With that fact which again you said only this morning you and Tom had measured turned out not to be the case

Sorry for all the typos .Sent from my iPhone

Ok

I have documented e-mail traffic approving the 40x80 pad.

You were here when it was laid out.

With the approved design of 80 ft that was the way it would fit.

Tom said when he puts in the retaining wall maybe we can get the road to 12'
