Ok, I will do on first draft.

Also attached is the email from March 8th. I had problems with my email account being hacked around that time and had to reset everything so it's possible it didn't go out.

Thanks, [REDACTED]

Jeffrey,

Below is a rough draft of details for a prenup that my team has come up with. [REDACTED] my wealth manager found an attorney for us to use in [REDACTED] with [REDACTED]. Her and [REDACTED] came up with the below design and suggestions with some modifications on my part based on advice from a mentor and what I thought was more fair to [REDACTED]. As I'm sure you already knew, this process wasn't nearly as easy as I thought it would be. Knowing little to nothing about prenups I have used the advice of my team to come up with the what seems to be a fair and reasonable agreement if the unforeseen happens.

I have personally sat down with [REDACTED] to go over this already. I felt it was only fair for her to review it with me first before receiving it from anyone else. We are on our way to [REDACTED] this weekend. Ideally I would wait until next week to dive back into this as it's not something I want distracting me during race weekends.

[REDACTED] is ready to write up an agreement as soon as we give her the go ahead on structure.

I appreciate your patience and assistance with this on both our parts but most importantly [REDACTED]. I have tried to find a balance of finishing this as soon as possible without allowing it to distract me from performing on the [REDACTED].

I look forward to hearing from you soon,

[REDACTED]

I sent you the draft sheet you asked for several weeks ago. I was waiting to hear if you wanted me to have them write something up along this lines or discuss it further. Also if you wanted anything included from [REDACTED] end.

As soon as we get to my computer I will resend. I'm here today and tomorrow if you would like to go over anything in person. Otherwise I can have our attorney contact yours to start drafting a final document.

Thanks,

[REDACTED]
