That would be a good start. I will take a closer look at it and try to determine what is salvageable. I think much more attention needs to be paid in the maintenance of the functional equipment as well. We didn't go into the new storage building on our ride but there is a great deal of preventative maintenance that needs to be done. We need to make this a priority before things deteriorate.

I d like you to give me an idea of what you need to get this place organized, should we take everything out of storage , clean the rooms and only put back what is operational and clean? this is not my skill set. do you need to hire laborers
