forget what i have written due to:

1. he already has public meetings with premier and no.2 set up for April
2. he already pitched this idea to the previous government in 2011

It needs a different approach, but to make a sensible recommendation I need to understand more, especially the history. The key now will be what and HOW he addresses this during the upcoming April meeting and most importantly how the follow up is done - the full Chinese power system needs to be worked for this.

We can organise all the right people quietly. No need for HK, its too "loud" for such sensitive project.
