probably the AI machines would cooperate and kill me too under your theory
I cant say how much to build an AI machine one has to build a smart machine that can do the simple things first and grow it (like a child)

I came easily find the people to do and god knows I have thought it out (did you ever read my book Dynamic Memory?)

lets say 5 million to deliver a 3 year old that grows into a four year old (wold take 3 years)

just guesses

what would you need to try a a i machine, progranners how much money, how long, waht milestones.. this shit is a total waste of you tatlent. if you were involved in a real project , you would forget about running around, Im sure that if you made many of the people you interact with smarter, they would then be aboe to cooperate and kill you.. I wonder whtert the head start program really works, some of the kids get smarter and with the same cultural heritage decide to kill each other and join gangs. The correlation between places of those programs and gang violence is great , but no one ever suggested a connection this is what we are building you will see why it really has nothing to do with teh argument you and I have been having
