Hi Rich;
Just wanted to get your take on the employee situation here. Am I correct that they are on salary? They only punch the clock for record keeping?

I wasn't able to get the master cleaned in a timely fashion today, because it was lunch break. Are there any guidelines as to how much break time they are entitled to? On a yacht we stagger the lunch times. Would something like that be possible? They are hard workers but seem very set in their routines and I want to make certain I approach the situation correctly.

Thank you!

Stephanie
