I called Frederik, he says he will speak with Harold and give me a call back tomorrow morning 8/9am. He promised me that he will help me with making sure the desk goes out this week.

Harold the shipper says he received authorization from the designer to release the shipment last week and that the desk will go out this week. I sent him quite a few emails and left voice messages where he avoided my request for confirmation that the desk had shipped. When I asked him to send me the bill of lading he eventually said it will go out this week. I do not know how to ensure that it goes out. I have told him that it is absolutely imperative and that the buyer requires it very urgently, but they do not seem to follow anything I say. Should I get Rich Kahn on to them as well?
