Hope you had a nice Hanullah. Since Karen still does not want to have Christmas at our house because of her mother's death this time last year I am taking her & John to Las Vegas. Figured it has Christmas, but not so much, and none of us have ever been so it should be fun. Besides, if John is going into the hospitality business, he should at least see Las Vegas once. Have any ideas about things to do besides see a Cirque du Soleil show and eat? (those seem to be the two most popular nongambling activities of those who frequent Las Vegas). I would like to see the Hoover Dam, but that hasn't gotten a big "Oh yea!" from Karen.
