An Evening with Michael Sandel

23th October 2014
Methodist Central Hall,
6.30 pm

This is an unmissable opportunity to hear the world famous philosopher Michael Sandel address the outstanding question of our age: how do we want to live together?

He has been called 'the most effective communicator of ideas' in English, our most 'relevant living philosopher', a 'genius', a humanitarian, who can has taken philosophy into the global public domain and empowered audiences worldwide to participate in the highest quality of debate. His Harvard 'Justice' course has become legendary. In Britain, BBC R4 audiences will know him as The Public Philosopher.

In the past, he has engaged live audiences in questions such as:

Why should we vote?

What are the moral limits markets?

Should a banker be paid more than a nurse?

Is it ethical to buy body organs?

Should Universities give preference to poor applicants?

Should we hire mercenaries to fight our wars, and should we sell citizenship?

Quite simply, Michael Sandel changes the way we think.

Michael J. Sandel is the Anne T. and Robert M. Bass Professor of Government at Harvard University. His 'Justice' course, the most highly attended in the university's history, is the first Harvard course made freely available online (www.JusticeHarvard.org) and has attracted millions of viewers. In 2010, China Newsweek named him the "most influential foreign figure of the year". In Seoul, Korea, 14,000 people filled an outdoor stadium to hear him speak. Sandel was the 2009 BBC Reith Lecturer, and his recent book Justice was an international bestseller. In April 2012 he presented a celebrated three-part BBC Radio 4 series 'The Public Philosopher'.
