Hi Rich,

I do think there has been a little misunderstanding with the issue of my girlfriend visiting.

I asked Ana if she knew a good place locally for a hotel while my girlfriend was visiting. That is when Ana said that she could just stay on the island since this was not an issue. I left it at "Lets see what works out, I will check the dates"

I never planned on bringing anyone to the island, and quite frankly, it did surprise me if that was even allowed. None of my family members, friends or spouses has ever been to my place of work, besides with the Lear family where they often asked my wife and I to stay at their house when on vacation for security and insurance purposes.

So, I was very surprised to find out that Ana had asked Jeffrey. This was something that I absolutely would have said no to if asked.

Just wanted to give you the whole story in case it was misunderstood

P.S. Just FYI. I am in a long term relationship and even though I travel a lot for my job, we try to get together every two weeks or so. But, always after my work day is over and even when she is around, I am always available 24/7 for the principals. Sometime I fly her out to where I work and put her in a hotel. Then we meet after work like in every other relationship.

Best
