martin please have someone contact this researcher at the medical school and i need an appointment for her to work on a girl of 11 years old starting around june 30 . Its important

In this 15 minute episode of Autism Talk TV, Alex sits down with Lindsay Oberman at Harvard Medical School's Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center to talk about TMS, a technology that allows researchers to use magnets to affect the brains of individuals with Autism. First we have an interview with Lindsay and then you can watch Alex undergoing TMS himself!!
