After three failed attempts by HSG drillers to remove pump from the Dakota Well, I was able get Rogers and Company to acid treat, pull pump with there large Rig- Friday last week.

Unfortunately they where unable to remove pump from well.

At this time the pump, 900 plus feet of 3 phase wire and the sounding tube are still in the well.

The pump separated from the discharge tube, Photo 2

Rogers feel it is completely stuck in the Well at set level of 1000 ft

If this is the case then the Dakota well will be most likely be non operational.

Casey Cook is recommending a Video camera be sent down to determine where the pump is.

If the pump has fallen to the bottom of the well, we maybe able to install a new pump, wire and sounding tube

Cost $2061.36, attached estimate

Rogers could be here Monday.

Shall we proceed with Video
