Dear Jeffrey,

Subjectively I love to eat, objectively the food was mediocre.

Upon reflection of objective -subjective, one might think of it more like the filling of a bottle. postulating that the shape of the bottle reflecting ones genetics and natural changes over time. . the lower portion of the bottle (the stomach), the objective , and the very top of the bottle , the head . the subjective. One could imagine lines on the side of the bottle. the first line . marked aversive, ugly, the very top of the bottle beautiful ,sublime . The first level the .common , the ugly would be filled (stimulated) by the smallest amount of liquid, (input) . , everyone can recognize ugly, smell dead meat etc. based on the various shapes of bottles and how high the neck, combined with the volume of liquid , only a few would experience the sublime. but to experience it the the bottle would have to be filled. leading to both an objective experience and subjective experience. hence no contradiction.
