

You should answer the question. Is it good. Tell why it might not be, what are the arguments for both

In some countries, teenagers have jobs while they are still students. Do you think this is a good idea?

I BELIEVE that Studying is a very important part of developing both the interests and the careers of teenagers. Working AT the same time can also be beneficial for young students. Nowadays most of the students divide their university obligations with part- time jobs.

Studying gives students some basic knowledge and maybe an idea what their future job will be. Taking a job while studying is a great opportunity to use both their knowledge in practice and identify their need to improve their skill needs.

in addition that fact young people have the chance to experennce and deal with difficult problems currently related to the job will better prepare them for the future, . Obvioulsy , some of them are in need of money to cover their living expences. Which is also a reason to take a job, In these cases sstudnets might be forced to apply for any small job, in order to make money though it is not necessarily related to their future profession.

Another reason why working during studies might be a good idea is to become an independent

Person who can first rely on first on themselvesand can help them to understand the consequences of their actions. Working can also teach them how to behave and communicate with other people to achieve the best results. Some working students live apart from their families and it foces them to learn about managing their income and priorities. It's a first step in developing an ability to make better decisions in life

If it comes to terms of jobs and studies for teenagers it's very important to know how to be well organized. Working students have to know how to cope with all homework and exercises at school with time and effort at work. It is also perceived by students as a positive action, because job may bring fulfilling and very satisfying awareness of being useful and doing something beneficial for themselves and other people. However, work has to allow students to study with a good grades in the same time.

To conclude, I think it's important for students to learn not only at school but also at working place. It has lots of beneficial aspects like getting experience, also precious practice how to cooperate, be responsible and well organized. If it happens earlier age it can form right patterns and the advantages of working might be even greater.
