Morning,

The results are moving around still - I've built a report a four times and it has changed with each. I'm waiting until it settles to send over - usually by now it would have settled, but we are also pushing very hard on all positive listings over the last 20 days - Google is testing and validating the new results more than usual.

Yesterday we had no negatives in the morning, 1 in the afternoon, and 2 at the end of the day. I'm still keeping all pistons firing while running another report or two today. As soon as I get two that are close and are 6 hours apart I will share with you.

Seeing the movement is a positive thing, albeit frustrating when it does not stay at first.

Christina - Have you added code via the data highlighted? Also, is your Google + ready - we will begin linking it up today if so. I'm pursuing a few new media outlets re: the EJAF story. We got one pickup yesterday which you can see here - working on others.

Best,

Tyler Shears

Will have to you by end of day. Wanted to let things settle some before running it again.

The one I ran Friday showed results different everywhere which is somewhat normal during an update
