

To: Alicia Juarrero [REDACTED]
From: Mark Tramo MD PhD
Sent: Thur 1/2/2014 3:14:43 PM
Subject: To Ms Juarrero Re: Summer 2014 programs on Music & the Brain

----- Message from [REDACTED] -----
Date: Thu, 2 Jan 2014 07:15:46 -0500
From: Alicia Juarrero [REDACTED]
Subject: Summer 2014 programs on Music & the Brain
To: [REDACTED]

Dr. Tramo:

I am helping a very bright high school sophomore who is interested in pursuing a career in the relationship between brain science and music. She is a concert caliber violinist and bilingual (English-Spanish).

Any suggestions re summer 2014 programs in this area for high school students?

Thank you.

Alicia Juarrero

--

Alicia Juarrero, PhD

Visiting Scholar,
Philosophy Department
University of Miami (FL)
Professor of Philosophy emerita
Prince George's Community College (MD)
[REDACTED]

Thank you for your email, Alicia -

The Institute for Music & Brain Science has projects for summer student volunteers. Typically, these involve doing literature searches for books and manuscripts we are working on, helping to prepare lectures and slides for my Music Mind & Brain course at UCLA, and helping to update our website. There is also an opportunity to shadow me and perhaps other doctors seeing patients. Universities around LA might have information about housing; we are based in Malibu - the closest colleges are Pepperdine and Cal Lutheran University. We have faculty in Boston, Austin, and San Diego whom I'll copy this email to as well. She can visit our website and might find the eLibrary of peer-reviewed journal articles helpful in cultivating her interests.

Sincerely,
Mark Tramo MD PhD
[REDACTED]

----- End message from [REDACTED] -----