7 Drums / 7 Artists is an interdisciplinary collaboration between seven contemporary artists, musicians and scientists, spanning seven years and several continents, curated by Everard Findlay.

Tuesday, December 10th

Jaron Lanier, celebrated inventor, author, musician, composer, and Brian Greene, famed theoretical physicist, joins Elliott Mannede in a conversation about the steel drum, the physics of sound and the mapping of musical structure onto a 3D object. In this seminal dialogue, Lanier offers his inimitable scientific insight into Mannede's experiential tuning process and the technical virtuosity required to discover the steel drum's unique tonal placement. The conversation will be moderated by physicist Dr Stephon Alexander.

Wednesday, December 11th

Trinidadian artist Che Lovelace gives a performance piece in which he re-contextualizes an oil barrel - a found object linked to the steel drum's development. In this piece, the oil barrel is presented in relation to the body, to Caribbean cultural ritual and the larger idea of creative technique. Following Che's piece, Olof Dreijer of The Knife and Elliott Mannede come together for a musical performance and discussion. Dreijer speaks about his process as a composer, his use of steel drum in particular tracks, and the state of electronic music. Mannede weighs in on a conversation with Olof about contemporary iterations of the steel drum, and in both contradiction and comparison, reflects on his analogue musical invention.
