I have tossed and turned in empathy with you. As I see it, your best friend at the moment is TIME. you have witnessed similar situations but mostly in Africa. my image is that you are running a complex business while living in an Alligator pit. yes, your mother has said you walked into it with your eyes open so you need to stay there. BUT The alligators that need watching are very old. dangerous, no longer in speed but in a sly way. ie David, Nadine. (alligator with binoculars) they are not under your control however your white hunters are also old (board). so they really don't offer needed protection. and this is in your control. almost. Your self posed question re should i require at least one of my own daughters.each that i have sacrificed my own life for. to live in the pit . tough question at the moment. (sophies choice) Boat racing, hotels. charity, cheese. all consume time and energy . the eventual conclusion to the restructuring will obviously be a first small positive step. but without the lively needed debate with your hand picked hunters. (should we walk there? What do you think, ? keep an eye on me,I smell trouble.- I tripped and fell. go find me a doctor! . watch my CHILDREN !! i am going hunting. . apart from you brother and mother , two trusted and competent sitters. the defenses are weak. I believe your time in the bush has given you your strength to gauge and sense danger from above , below and around the corner. no matter , as you are keenly aware guides and hunters to accompany you are required . Bistro is a great idea

Yes it was fun and thank you for the dinner. Thank you also for your patience and presence. I must take you to a real bistrot, so you tell me what you think of it
