Only real difference was that GII has two generators and two alternators for power, the GIV has two alternators that power the aircraft a converters for avionics, we may need larger converter to power the amps, (maybe)

As you know car has a alternator that can be increased to a larger output to handle several large output amps, we may need a larger converter for the GIV , I'll check with Paul at Gulfstream our old stereo guy.

We need additional 28V aircraft power so that we can then convert the 28v to the car audio 12v.

Yes; and a critical one at that. We have maxed out the available power to support the equipment. The only way to get the additional power that would be required to increase the amplifier power would be to install an aircraft power converter (which is something you did not want to do earlier).
