Hi [REDACTED]

I submitted the Bach piece to Huffington on Friday and they are going to let me know when it will go live by the morning.

Both sites will be renewed in the AM as well.

I have a few publications I am circulating the PED article to and anticipate feedback by Thursday.

.net will be online Friday - we lost the main drive on our dev server and are having the drive restored at a local shop. The majority of the site was on that drive but expect it done this week.

The negatives have recently settled but I anticipate the recently built links to forbes and huffington article supporting it will be enough to take us to one or less.

Please send over release and I will send a draft for your review in the AM.

I will be mobile the rest of the evening but can be available if you have any questions

Respectfully,

Tyler Shears
