OK, so I'll process him at 60K at MIT and tell him that you'll work with him on the spread.

You could either gift him money while he is still in Berlin, we could set him to 80% time and he could apply for another visa to work somewhere else and they could pay him the difference, or some other structure if we want to get him $100K/yr. The other option is to negotiate him down, but I'm not sure if you've promised anything.
