Dear Jeffrey

The situation for the company plane is as follows :

Since I started considering buying a company plane all my senior people are getting excited and started to say well why don't we buy G650 we can spend $70 m I said I need to carry 20 people so now they are telling me lets but a BBJ.

I think better to consider other bids

Yours

Sultan

Dear Jeffrey,

I think we should consider the bids for the 727 . I can't understand how sultans co will use their own pilots , travel with large groups of people on board and be responsible for all wear and tear on interior and engines . My previous idea of purchase with buyback is the only method that protect us from risk . Including insurance issues . Let me know
