Jeffrey, After 30 years I decided to leave fundraising and move into sales. Academic Travel Abroad is a large group travel provider that does 4 things extremely well . We are one of Nat Geo's and Smithsonian's preferred travel providers, so when you travel with them there is a strong possibility it is one of our programs that we provide as an affinity provider. We also provide travel abroad programs for college students to study language in China , Russia, Europe, Middle East and North Africa, have a professional program where we take associations overseas called Professionals Abroad . Cuba is a hot market for Doctors, dentist, architects and others and I work with non- profits, focusing on their alumni and donor program. When a museum exhibit tours we set up the side by side donors trip that goes to Europe or we take alumni to a special place that is related to the schools mission or a program that the school operates, taking along a few professors as the subject matter experts.

If we can be of service in any way, please don't hesitate to call, I was just damned impressed with the amount of philanthropy and the scientific accomplishments that you have supported, so many others with your level of financial security do not think of trying to solve big issues. All the best tja
