Hi [REDACTED],

Perfect timing. I'm going to leverage as many of them as we can + new ones I will be bringing to the table for our new site, and also for many of the results that are still fluctuating.

It looks like the Wikipedia link is gaining traction and I even noticed a video result today. It is gone now but I would not be surprised if it came back. Typically Google tests changes in small doses and then rolls them out a few weeks later, giving you glimpses of what is coming with data points like this.

I'll make sure we are ready to influence any video content as needed if/when that time comes, and these links will also help!

I'm waiting on feedback from the .COM domain owner, but am in process of securing the .NET.

I'll also be getting into the Google + work starting tomorrow, so you will notice some activity on the sites in our control. If I run into any I cannot figure out how to access I will contact you.

Sincerely,

Tyler Shears

Hi Tyler,

attached is an excel sheet with the links to the .ORG site. There are approx. 1,290 of them-- the sheet shows the most prominent: 369 of them. I have a few more that I'm adding from organizations the foundation donated to.
