So, I'm now back from France where I have been since you sent this note. I am planning on going to China on 7/8. There are several meetings being planned for me during my visit, but if JE says you're the man, then you're the man. Where might I reach you over the coming few days to talk about this. I would also like to include the people in my organization who are responsible for planning the trip and who have been setting the appointments. I look forward to speaking with you.
