Bill,

I've given yesterday's conversation a lot of thought. I hope no matter what happens and what you decide to do that you are happy for a long time. I greatly value our friendship. (I hope Warren can assist in putting out the fire)

I did not want there to be any misunderstandings between you and I, ever. If you cannot convince Melinda to change her mind, my career as I had hoped for is at an end. I appreciate the offer to work with Khosla, and your offer to pay small severance but I think we need to be creative about a fair and just solution. There are many pieces and ways to think about the future. I fear my reputation and future is in danger, and I have done nothing wrong.

As you said there was little hope in her changing her mind, almost zero, I have asked Jeffrey for his help, and I know that we can trust him. He is very creative and has dealt with situations as delicate and complex as this one before. He is bound as my financial advisor by confidentiality, which both he and I take very seriously.. I am keeping my fingers crossed that you can pull off a miracle, and we can continue to work on so many good causes and projects. I believe in you,
