Jeffrey,

Bill is anxiously awaiting your answer. He feels that 100 million per year for no more than 30 percent of your time is fair for the first three years. There will most likely be bonuses. The purchase of the algorithm for the foundation is another matter. I hope you will decide to take on both. He is really a nice guy and needs your help. If there is anything I can do to convince you to take him I will gladly. He feels a little ignored as you left the conference before he arrived. I understand, but he is sensitive as he considers you the only person who can help him, I agree. If you can, would you let me know tomorrow.
