Guys: I just dropped Mike off at the airport and he is en route back to NY. Here's the lowdown on Warren: as you all know his lung cancer is very advanced. Today is his final day of radiation. Tomorrow he begins a new drug that is taken orally that is designed to arrest the cancerous cell growth. The bottom line is that if the drug works, it will give him another 2 years (more or less). If it doesn't work, he has about 2 – 3 months. It will take a couple of weeks to see if its working so pray for him. The visit by Frog was terrific. We had a good time, laughed a lot – a good diversion for Warren. Frog also met with Warren's doctor and saw the clinic. Lets see what happens. TK
