Greetings Mr. Epstein,

The vendor for the mini excavator received notice today that buckets will not be arriving until next week, and the week after (there are two buckets in total). He is suggesting that we move forward with shipping the unit next week as planned, and the buckets can be shipped on a pallet in two weeks once they arrive in Florida from the UK. The excavator will not be functional until the bucket is attached.

Do you wish to go forward with the shipment of the excavator, or wait until one bucket arrives?

Respectfully,

Daphne
