For international airports, Handler are sub contracted by Universal Aviation in Houston, or in Paris's instance, they are owned by Universal Aviation,.

-- Handling fees are the people that great the aircraft on arrival for support along with: arranging customs when needed, arrange fuel truck, flight plans, Luggage, and dump the Lavs on the aircraft, etc. and usually based on the size of aircraft due to ramp space and personal required for arrivals.

Some USA large airports such as LAX, Dulles and Miami charge handling fees, but not as expensive as Paris,. normally a handling fee at Miami is $695.00 and usually waived when purchasing 500 gallons or more of jet fuel,.however, if the FBO does not offer a great fuel discount, paying handling fee is prudent and I tanker fuel from previous airport for better savings.

hope this helps

thx
Larry
