The time to get proposals from MEP and structural is after schematic design. At that point we can influence the simplicity of what we want, especially structural where they overdesigned before. We also talked to Warwick that we want to go with split systems in several areas which have minimal involvement of mech. design.

I would also wait for the schematic for const. adm.

I think asking for fees at this time will result in higher fees to cover unknowns which will be resolved after schematic and pre construction doc. conferences.

This fee is in line with schematic design per my estimate, I recommend you approve.

Hi Gary,

Attached is our proposal for the pool area and main residence. This is to develop the current scheme, for just this area, to a Schematic Design level. Once that is done, assuming there are no major changes, we will provide a separate proposal to prepare construction documents and engineering as necessary. This will simply the CD phase, and simply the work of any required consultants.

I am working on proposals for conceptual design services the Spa and Guest Cottage, and will send them on Monday.

Thanks,

Warwick

were the 11/3 F1 or F2 schemes close enough to your concept to have Gensler take one of them to the next level and contract? also should they be producing a schematic for the SPA to review
