

To: jeevacation@gmail.com[jeevacation@gmail.com]; Jeffrey Epstein[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Sun 10/21/2012 3:33:18 AM
Subject: Fwd: Saying Sorry

Crazy!!!

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Clara Vo <[REDACTED]>
Date: Sat, Oct 20, 2012 at 6:50 PM
Subject: Saying Sorry
To: [REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]: this is a very weird email I know and please excuse spelling Im in a hurry. for what its worth let me explain: I dated Moritz for short while a few years back. I fell in love very deeply with him very fast someting I had never experienced before. Then he suddenly broke up with me and I totally broke down. I didnt know what was happening cause I thought he loved me too but he said I wasnt the right person for him. I was mad and hurt and very confused. I started doing stuff to hurt him back. he has a reputation to loose adn so I did some web stuff to hurt him that way. I am pretty techy and have lots of friends in silicon valley where I lived for the longest time that I could use also. He knew about some of the things like facebook and other match profile I put up, and last year when he started dating you he told me to back off cause he found "the one". Well I was still in love with him, and actually moved to new york because of him from cali just earlier last year (he doesnt even know that) to have a chance to get back wtih him. but he never even responded to my texts and call. I had tried to fall in love with someone else but it never felt the same so I was so afraid I would never be happy again without him. I did things I am not proud of and regret. Im not a bad person but just couldnt help doing this. I couldnt bear the thought that he found "the one". I had already access to his computer from remote and had his phone jailbroken as he never updated his software that was easy. I pretended he was active on match. Until he updated the OS I had full access to his phone I could listen to converstations write messages whatever I wanted. I saw stuff between you and him also, sorry. I was just so in love and jealous cause you two looked so cute together. But now when I saw that what I did caused the end of your relationship I feel really bad. To make a long story short I now want to resolve things and make it up to you and him. Something selfishly about it because I know now he will never be with me again but as long as he isnt really off the market I cant stop thinking of him. so it would actually help me get over this if i knew you guys got hitched. Does this make any sense to u i dunno:(in any case what i am trying to say is i did a lot of bad stuff that made him look bad and you must think he is bad but he really is not. Before it was my intention cause i a was so mad but now i jsut want to get over this or else it eats me up. I need closure.

I would have rather met up with you to tell you all this in person (tried calling you also) but I am leaving tomorrow and wont be back til end of the week and think you should know the skinny sooner. I still wouldn't mind meeting up in person when I am back. I cant tell you my name on here as he threatened to sue me and this address is a throwaway address for the same reason. Still pLease keep whatever i said here to yourself its confidential between you and me. Take care.