Jeffrey

I'm at $660,000 for stage III kit, see below..

I am contacting some operators of these kits for their opinion regarding performance penalties and if in fact that Europe recognizes this kit as Stage III..

I don't want to rush this decision, to meet the dead line of return to service next Sunday, as stated below.

thx

Larry

Larry,

We have already dropped our drawers so to speak in an effort to get this done quickly. However, I spoke to my partner and $660,000 is our absolute bottom line. That is all in with no other costs at all.

I hate to rush you and fully understand that this is a big financial decision but we need to know today if you want 100% guaranteed redelivery of the aircraft next Saturday. We have mechanics and an inspector booked on a flight to NY at 7 am tomorrow. If you need another day to decide please let me know so I can let them know that are not traveling in the morning. If you gave the green light tomorrow, we could finish guaranteed nest Sunday.
