Sounds great! I will find a time to call. But let me know if there is a good time. Otherwise, I'll just try when I can.

Subject: Hello from your Dalton Years!
To: "jeffreyepsteinorg@gmail.com" <jeffreyepsteinorg@gmail.com>

Jeff,

I hope this email reaches you. I also hope you remember me from Dalton so many years ago where, as I remember it, I did a substantial amount of your calculus teaching for you... You may also recall that I worked with you at Bear Stearns one summer. It's been more than 35 years since I've seen you.

After Dalton I went to Harvard, then medical school at Cornell, then to the University of Pennsylvania for my residency and fellowship in internal medicine, where I also got an MBA from Wharton. I joined the faculty at Penn after that in both the School of Medicine and at Wharton, and I've been there for more than 25 years. For the past 15 years or so I've been Director of the Leonard Davis Institute of Health Economics. This has about 200 faculty in it and is very broadly directed at research health economics, health policy, and such. My own work is in the area of behavioral economics and health.

You can learn more about LDI here: <http://ldi.upenn.edu/>

Here's a web page about me: <https://hcmg.wharton.upenn.edu/profile/1502/overview>

It looks like you've done extremely well (and a lot better than Bear Stearns as a whole...) If you get this message, I'd be happy to buy you a cup of coffee in NY (or the same if you're ever in Philadelphia). Although my parents are no longer alive, I still have sisters there and I am in NYC for one thing or another all the time.

With fond memories,

David
