hi jeffrey,

so i will start with venetian plaster in relax room. before i do those vertical and horizontal burnished lines i have to put like 3 coats straight venetian plaster.

then before i start with those lines i will do samples in a corner on the wall, 8 inches wide lines, one sample with the distance between lines twice as large and one with the distance twice as small, then i will send you pictures with the samples so you can relate them to the room..to the size of the tiles on the floor.

is that ok?

thank you,
ion

i think in the room i did on 5th floor on 71st st, the lines are 5.5 inches wide and 2 feet in the between.

maybe if we do 8 inch wide with two feet in the between would look good. somehow the same square like on the fifth floor but with the lines a little wider.

hi jeffrey,

..so for the relax room I will do white on white venetian plaster vertical and horizontal lines. we discussed in new york about making the lines wider. the relax room has tiles on the floor and one tile is 16X16 inches, so I was thinking to follow the floor lines up on the wall so those vertical and horizontal lines I will do on the wall will be 16 inches wide with a distance between them by 16 inches. so we will have somehow the same squares on the wall like on the floor.

so what do you think about this?

thank you,
ion
