Trent,

My 2001 Lincoln started giving me problems and I realized it probably would not make it much longer, so I got a new vehicle this weekend. Given the situation, I leased a car because there was a very good deal at the local Acura on their SUV. The lease cost $1500.00 down and $375 a month for 36 months. With all expenses considered, the total cost is about $18,400 for the 3 years, including all routine maintenance/service for the 3 years.

My car was valued at $1,500.00 with the new mechanical problems and it was traded in. Just wanted to let you know about the change in assets-liabilities.
