First and foremost, I would like to say by the time you receive this email you are in the best of health. I have been a busy man this year, therefore it has limited my time in socializing, and keeping in touch. I have a break now I'm done with all required classes for union training, qualifying me 15 credits toward an associate degree in Environmental Control Technology. I'm pretty proud of myself for having accomplished everything in such little time, but I am worn down lol, I need a break. I've decided on taking a break, registering myself in the fall semester in 2011. I need time to enjoy the snow, sun, and fresh air that life brings. I'm writing you today because we are nearing a new-year and I would like to be the first ones to welcome you a Happy New Year. I hope that the new-year brings more happiness and peace to you and your loved ones. This Friday I'm missing out on being united with the family and celebrating together, due to work. I work Friday and Saturday, so that's a bummer. I'm just happy to make it through to another year. yaaaaayyyaa. sorry had to let that out I guess that's the most excitement I would be expressing on the new-year lol. I know I haven't communicated lately due to being busy, but I have to run but just for now, and promise to keep in touch more often. I just want to really reiterate again that all is great for you in the new-year and I hope you enjoy!!
