She is Brazilian and an actress....totally unstable. Listen to me. You need a European intellectual and not an author who will write about you...no show biz trash.

Is there an agency for this tall order?

I am thinking this is a position for a European who understands the mistress (in this case baby mama) mentality.

You need someone young without much of a career. Maybe a professional student...someone who is kept and can just keep going to school...getting all sorts of degrees. Also, who doesn't have much of a family herself. The last thing you want is "in-laws". HA.

A wanna be socialite is NOT the way to go.

A baby Mama...if I wasn't 102 I would take that job in a nano second.

Can't I be the Auntie Mame/Mama. I would be excellent at that job.

Here is the problem. You have to find someone who will take is as a business deal and not get crazy emotional...a top girl will want a real relationship with the father....a girl who wants a certain life that she can't get any other way is a candidate...but must be stable like a rock.

I have an appointment on Monday, Aug. 22 at his office. I told him the background re. business set up and mother's estate. He is Phillip Michael's accountant. I will bring him all the papers Bryan has given me...including the expense reports I am getting this Tuesday....and have him talk to you too.

I will have him deal with Bryan directly.

Phillip Michaels does not think Bryan is stealing from me...but we will get everything in order and I will get all copies of billing, receipts and expenses and bank accounts for business.

I will have him deal with my brother directly. I asked my mother's accountant Sy Bressler for a record of the checks written against the estate and he blew me off saying my brother has the checkbook and to contact him. I have asked Phillip Michaels how to do this and am waiting advice. Do I just email brother and tell him to send all records of what has been spent since date of death? Does he legally have to comply?

I am in Southampton at Tory Burch's and available all day.
