In case you gentlemen have not met one another...

Steven, Egon is the co-head of Silver Lake, the only large-scale buyout firm in the world that can actually do tech buyouts in my opinion. We at AH are very close to Silver Lake and were their partner on the Skype deal.

Egon, Steven is the recently departed senior Microsoft executive who ran Windows 8 as well as many other projects there over the last 20 years. In a parallel universe, he'd be Steve Ballmer's successor.

I think you'd enjoy getting to know each other completely independently and in addition to discussing any particular cosmic deals that might be in the works...

Marc
