I love you and have stood by you during what i know has been a very stresful time for you.. however, I truly beleive you should be ashamed of yourself. in the way you have decided totreat me . your strong reaction to a broken trinket , is far from the reaction to [REDACTED] that has [REDACTED] / you have refused to help me with my visa. and get annoyed when i try to find an alternaitve. I have always been there for you , with all the love i can give. you have ignored my needs but obsessed about yours. The fundamental issue , as you put it, is what has driven you to behave in a way that i know you yourself are not proud of. the bad, press. father, [REDACTED]. I fear that you have lost , who you really are. i know these times are difficult , if there is somthing i can do. i will. I want things to be good between us.

He came up to me again now talking about his tree and saying that probably we have fundamental issues. And that he has been having too much stress with my visa. I suggested that we have a few days apart to think things over.
