Subject: price list

Hi Igala

To follow up on the conversation we had today, I want to clarify that the prices shown in the plant selection I submitted to you on February 3, 2011, were already discounted twice in the course of our email correspondence and conversations from the retail number, and that occurred BEFORE the additional 5% discount that was applied in the final list submitted. In fact, each time I sent you our plant inventory in the course of the past few months I rebated the plant prices from our retail prices and I did that twice, assuming you were interested in buying a large quantity. So the discount really is more 10% or even 15% in many cases.

I also want to warn you that last friday a client signed me a check for some plants that I had originally put in your list and they will no longer be available. They purchased them at the higher price, and this is business, I am sorry. if you are still interested in our plants I will need to re-issue the list of what is available, and I can do this only on Friday or Saturday this week.

regards
Rossana
