Subject: Seed's Data Visualization of the Day on WSJ.com

Dear colleagues,

We'd like to share some very exciting news -- as of today, the Wall Street Journal (WSJ.com) will be publishing a Data Visualization of the Day pulled from Seed Media Group's open data visualization platform, Visualizing.org.

You can follow the Data Visualization of the Day here (right rail):<http://blogs.wsj.com/ideas-market/>

We are working hard at Seed Media Group to push the boundaries of data visualization as a way of understanding and communicating complex issues and systems -- and we're delighted to see this newest collaboration take shape.

Kindest regards,
Adam

When we spoke the other day I said we were closing our deals and getting back on our feet... Deals are closed and I'm on the road generating new business (in Philadelphia now)... I have no concrete news on timing of your loan yet because I'm just starting to regain visibility... we are not paying down any loans right now and all walnut etc loans got converted to equity behind new financing. Can we pick this up in a few weeks once I have more visibility into cash flow?
