Gmail has 2 modes, standard & basic. If you're in "basic," previous messages are copied to your reply only if you check an "include" box; but that box shows up inconsistently, depending on the address you're replying to.

In any case, you need to be in standard & not basic. Just above the copyright line, click "Gmail view: standard," & that should switch you from basic into standard; in standard, prev messages texts are included automatically.

Might not be your problem, but it's news to me & our only lead so far.
