Hi Mom...I called to speak to YOU but you were gone and Randy was home from his Rotary meeting...he did tell me the results and said he is working on the [REDACTED] but would be ready to drink beer and party come our visit in Feb! (it is looking like Feb. 16-21) I hate that the results were positive but Randy is doing the right thing by making his appointment for next surgery and getting on with things!! Randy will persevere!! and we will all be great supporters! Love you mom!

Oh Mom -- that is alarming news -- but it sounds like they caught it pretty early! I am glad to know he is so upbeat (typical Randy!) and we will all stay upbeat together! It is good that the results came back quickly! I understand letting him tell us - but I totally understand you wanting to reach out for some comfort (and I won't indicate that I have been informed). We will all be sending positive thoughts about everything! Love Ashley

Too bad - [REDACTED] were 'positive' so Randy has to have [REDACTED] again for the [REDACTED], Ugh! Of course he's all 'Upbeat' about it. He told me the results then hurried off to his Rotary Club meeting. Don't say ANYTHING! I want him to be the one who announces the results to the family, which I'm sure he will do later today (???) Anyway, I'm stressing over it - I was SO SURE that the results would go the other way - I'm really surprised [REDACTED]! Oh well, we'll just deal with it. Love mom
