it's this funny looking thing that we installed to give you AT&T cell service at home:

The login is your AT&T wireless account that Bella sent us:

Login ID: [REDACTED] Password: [REDACTED] Email: [REDACTED]

I'm heading into the office to call AT&T with her later today, so no worries.

is this at my home?
or for my cell phone? sorry, i am not sure what you are asking...but on another note, I have not changed any of my passwords...?

Did you change your AT&T passcode, by chance? It's not allowing me to log into your MicroCell webpage.

I am checking on AT&T Microcells for Jeffrey and tried to log into yours to get the serial number and see if any other devices were registered to your account (we have two so far that I can't figure out which account they're registered to).

Thanks,
